

Sgt, Troy Albright
Crisis Response Specialist

I have been trained to deescalate any crisis from corporate security disruption to neutralizing war zones for the military. Most scenarios with resistance can be managed without any physical contact.

Addiction can create fear-based aggressive actions, even against loved ones. The last thing I want to do is restrain someone suffering from addiction but in rare cases, it is a necessary intervention to ensure safety for all. In most cases, just a presence will help de-escalate an aggressive individual.

Experienced Airborne Ranger Infantry Officer retired and with a demonstrated history of working in the government relations industry. Skilled in Training, Intelligence Analysis, Government, Combat, Military Affairs, and Operational Planning. Strong military and protective services professional with a Bachelor of Arts focused in History from Illinois State University. Raised in Chicagoland graduating from Barrington High School. Serving in several wars in the 82nd Airborne Division and 10th Mountain Infantry Division. Owned and operated a small business in between wars and finally in 2011, returned to Illinois to live in Hanover Park and train new Army officers at Wheaton College and Northern Illinois University ROTC programs.